My Boss Said What??

Busting myths at the LCBO

Myth:

Sunday now becomes a regular day of work.

The Real Story:

The arbitrator has ended the Sunday premium for retail workers as of April 1, 2017.

The arbitrator did not rule that Sunday is a regular work day.

The arbitrator set limits on how many Sundays a full-time worker can work, and the days off they receive in the week they work a Sunday, but left the other details to the two parties to negotiate.

Until the two sides negotiate a new Article 7 to address the question of Sunday work, the existing language stands, which means that available Sunday hours should be offered on a voluntary basis according to seniority.
